EXPERTISE

Claude Ramoni is a Swiss qualified Attorney-at-Law specialising in advising and representing clients in the fields of sports and business law. After more than seven years of practice with a major law firm in Lausanne, he joined Libra Law as a founding partner in 2009. Claude Ramoni advises and represents clients from the world of sport, such as national and international sports federations, clubs and athletes in various areas, including doping matters. He regularly acts as counsel before the Court of Arbitration for Sport, judicial bodies of sports federations or Swiss State courts, including the Swiss Federal Tribunal. He further advises medium and large companies in their business activities; he notably handled several merger and acquisition operations and regularly supports clients in the field of clinical trial and research collaboration agreements.
